ISSUE AREA
LITIGATION FINANCE

PROTECT FUNDING FREEDOM

Because justice shouldn't depend on who can afford to fight.

WHAT IT IS

LITIGATION FINANCE LEVELS THE FIELD

Big law firms routinely finance litigation by working on contingency, and wealthy litigants can pay their own way. Litigation finance levels the playing field by allowing small businesses, nonprofits, and individuals to challenge powerful institutions and defend constitutional rights. Instead of relying on charity, investors can fund critical cases and benefit from conservative victories.

WHY IT MATTERS

FREEDOM IN COURT PROTECTS JUSTICE EVERYWHERE

Defending parental rights, supporting detransitioners, protecting free speech, challenging ESG and DEI—all require lawsuits, often against massive woke institutions. Litigation finance is crucial to these and future cases.

WHY IT'S UNDER ATTACK

BIG WOKE INSTITUTIONS WANT TO STOP BEING SUED

Some giant corporations in finance, tech, and insurance are pushing "transparency" rules and discriminatory regulations that target litigation funding. Their goal? Dry up resources that make it possible to challenge them and their woke agenda.

- Donor Disclosure threatens personal privacy and could expose supporters to retaliation or violence.
- Discriminatory Regulation adds red tape and risk meant to discourage legitimate lawsuits.
- Targeted Taxation would punish those who fund important conservative cases.